“Winning over unemployment”

SWIM UK’s growing success in getting unemployed jobseekers back in to work in the South of England has hit a new high with Virgin Active employing 8 new Lifeguards at their new Falmer site in Brighton.

The 8 new staff , all of which completed their RLSS National Pool Lifeguard Qualification for FREE with SWIM UK as part of their “Sporting Solutions” programme, are now all off Job seekers Allowance and working part/full time, and are heading for bright futures within the leisure industry.

Virgin Active’s General Manager Chris Gilkes said , “We’re delighted to be associated with Swim UK, we see the initial nerves fall away as our new recruits develop into polished, confident professionals; a real asset to any workplace.”

Paul Smith MD, of SWIM UK also added “I can’t think of better evidence to reflect the effectiveness of our short courses in getting people skilled and into a new career!”
